DON'T GET HOT READING THIS

While New York sweltered yes terday, citizens in other parts of the United States found the sunny side of the street more comfortable than the shady during the day, and in the early morning hours pulled up the blankets to keep warm.

He who cursed the heat of his native land will possibly retract when ae learns that the mercury at Havre, Mont., and Durango, Col. stood only at 46 yesterday. Other excellent summer resorts were:

and ended with the Hensmans being taken to the Coney Island police station, where they were held in $200 bail on a charge of disorderly conduct.

All day long boats, trolleys and "B. R. T." trains, jammed to capacity with fugitives from the city's heat, brought their loads to Coney Island. between three and four hundred thousand persons visited the resort. Far into the night all lines running to the island were crowded. Even at nightfall the beaches were not deserted, for 10,000 persons slept

$3,000 FRAUD LAID TO MRS. JENKINS

As Mrs. Field, Woman in Allen Jewel Case Figures in New Suit.

BILKED LANDLORD ON TRADE, HE SAYS

Change of Name, He Alleges, Deceived Him Into Leasing Apartment to Her.

Mrs. Helen Dwelle Jenkins, who gained much notoriety through her asociation with Nathan Allen, a former state Senator of Wisconsin, who was found guilty in this city of smuggling jewelry, is again in the court records. This time she is known as Helen Field, under which name she has long managed to escape public attention. It was due to this change of name, it is alleged, that Mrs. Jenkins was able to rent rooms at 253 West Ninetyfirst Street and defraud Gustave E. Walter, who sued her. Walter, whose wife owned the apartment, obtained a judgment against her for $1,700. The judgment was taken for $1,700. The judgment was taken by default on May 14 last. Mrs. Field explained that she did not appear to defend the suit because she was suffering from a nervous breakdown. The new phase of the litigation is an application by Walter for an order to direct the Lenox Storage and Transfer Company to deliver to him household effects, valued at $3,000, stored there by Mrs. Field. In view of the uncertainty of title of this furniture, Justice Governor and to Tribune correspondent:

The new phase of the litigation is an application by Walter for an order to direct the Lenox Storage and Transfer Company to deliver to him household effects, valued at $3,000, stored there by Mrs. Field. In view of the uncertainty of title of this furniture, Justice Giegerich appointed Adolph Stern yesterday to examine the claim. Walter's claim is for the value of certain furniture and services.
